HISTORY

BUYING & SELLING HIGH QUALITY PROCESS PLANT & EQUIPMENT WORLDWIDE SINCE 1932.

Perry Epstein formed his company, Perry Equipment & Supply, in 1932 in Philadelphia. An engineer by training, Perry saw the value of used process equipment during the great depression.

During the early 1950's the company started to manufacture new pressure vessels and heat exchangers alongside its used equipment division.

By the start of the 1970's Perry's used equipment division, which had originally focused on chemical process equipment, had expanded into additional industries including plastics, pulp & paper, sugar and pharmaceuticals.

The original company is now called Perry Videx and is headquartered in New Jersey, USA.

Perry's first international venture was in 1990 when they established a European business division based in the UK that is Perry Process Equipment Ltd.

Over the years several other international offices have been established to cater for the global nature of the business and to ensure the highest quality service and the largest range of stock for our customers.
